AN UNSETTLING EXPERIENCE

If you were to be injured in a car crash due to another driver's negligence, a claims representative for the insurance company that represents the other party will likely contact you. The chances are also good that the claims representative will suggest "settling" the matter quickly by offering monetary compensation. Although you may politely listen to this offer, you should not accept it. The claims representative works in the interests of the insurance company. To have someone who is interested in getting you the compensation you deserve, consult with an attorney well-versed in personal injury law. The more you know about the legal points of your case, the better able you'll be to make decisions that best serve your interests.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, someone is injured in a car accident every 10 seconds in the US. These accidents are frequently caused by the negligence of other drivers. If you or a loved one needs legal assistance with a personal injury, call our office to schedule a free initial consultation. Personal injury cases are our specialty and for your convenience, we offer hospital and in-home visits.

HINT: Never admit guilt after a car crash by saying that you are sorry. You may not be aware of all the factors that contributed to the crash.
